The American Music Awards Make Their Annual Splash

By Gregory Dobrin

LOS ANGELES—For non-industry music fans, and that means most music fans, the American Music Awards are apparently the one's to watch. Second to the Oscars, the AMAs have a larger viewing audience than any other awards show, which could be due to the fact that, instead of the largely self-congratulatory, industry-voted Grammys, this is the evening when a cross-section of the public gets to choose their favorites - from a list of nominees compiled from the Cash Box year-end polls.

Last week's 14th Annual American Music Awards ceremony, held at the Shrine Auditorium, had more visual oomph than past shows with its artfully designed sets, as well as several surprises in its course. Presided over by the always effervescent and dazzlingly attired Diana Ross, the show was its usual, tightly knight slate of country, soul, R&B, pop and rock music, with slews of presenters and performers representing these most commercial of musical genres.

One of the evening's jolts was Madonna's sudden emergence from the wings to accept her award for Favorite Female Pop/Rock Video (Papa Don't Preach). Not only did she appear, but she appeared looking like Marilyn Monroe's long lost daughter. Another, equally unexpected surprise was that Janet Jackson, honored with nine nominations, only walked away with two awards.

Not so surprising, though her debut LP is nearly two years old, was Whitney Hous-

Jazz Show With David Sanborn Notches Up Its First Year

By Lee Jeske

NEW YORK—When NBC Radio Entertainment's The Jazz Show With David Sanborn hit the satellite on January 3rd, 1986 for its first broadcast, the expectations were, not surprisingly, modest.

"We went in very conservatively and said if we get to 80 stations after we're on a year, and it's the right 80 stations, with good penetration in the top markets, then this will be a good, solid show, it'll be a glamour piece for us," says Andy Denemark, the executive producer of the show and now NBC Radio Entertainment's director of programming. "Normally we'd aim at 130 or 150 stations. We started with about 30 stations on the first week, but, by the end of the first quarter, we had 80 stations with good penetration in the top markets. After three months. And the thing kept going to the point where, at the end of its first full year a couple of weeks ago, we were on about 116 stations."

The Jazz Show With David Sanborn is a two-hour show that features the saxophonist spinning, mostly, fusion cuts and interviewing, mostly, fusion artists. It is an easy-going kind of a show that, according to Denemark, has no trouble crossing radio's sometimes insurmountable format boundaries.

"What's been most exciting about this show is it's not just that there was a need in the marketplace, that the listeners wanted variety and we gave it to them. What's really exciting, from our point of view, is, with a jazz show, if an AOR station doesn't want it, then an adult contemporary station can run it. And if an adult contemporary station doesn't want it, an urban station might want it, or a jazz station, or a CHR station. We're on all sorts of diverse kinds of stations."

Denemark first conceived of the show in late 1984, inspired by the success such stations as San Francisco's KFOG were having with Sunday afternoon "jazz brunch" shows—shows that, according to Denemark, "would give a rock station a real different twist for the listener to wake up to on a Sunday morning."

Denemark bandied about the idea until he went to the annual Abrams Convention, where he heard Dave Logan—an Abrams consultant and and ex-KFOGer, the guy who launched their jazz brunch show—get up and say, "The one thing I can't impress upon you enough—you're going to look at me like I'm crazy, but it's the thing to do—is to do a Sunday midday jazz show." The bandying stopped—the wheels were set in motion.

First came the testing of the waters: the waters were warm—people were going out of their way to impress upon Denemark their support for the show, some even offering to supply the show with rare records. Then came the idea for a format and a host. It should have interviews, that was decid-

RCA/Ariola International Makes Appointments

LOS ANGELES—Bernard Carbonez, president and director general (PDG) of RCA/Ariola France has announced three new executives and a revised company structure in a reorganization designed to strengthen the company's ability to meet new long-term strategic goals in the swiftly changing French music industry.

The three newly named executives are: Phillippe Desindes, appointed director, RCA/Ariola International and Licensees, heading the International department for the French company; Jean-Claude Larco, appointed director of sales and marketing, and Laurence Le Ny, director of promotion. All will report directly to Claude Brunet, general manager of RCA/Ariola.

In other news, Franco Reali has been appointed president of RCA/Ariola's Italian company, RCA S.p.A.

He has been general manager of the company since October 1984. In that position he was responsible for the RCA label and the company's marketing, sales and distribution organizations. He also designed and implemented an independent sales structure for RCA/Columbia Pictures Home Video in Italy.

He spearheaded the restructuring of the Italian company's marketing area, which has resulted, in the last two years, in an increased market share for RCA/Ariola's international artist roster which includes Whitney Houston, Eurythmics, Mr. Mister, and Bruce Hornsby, as well as an overall strengthening of RCA's competitive position in the Italian music industry.

Prior to joining RCA, Reali's career spans more than 20 years in advertising and marketing with major Italian and international companies.

Theodore Cooper, Father of Atlantic Sr. V.P., Dies At 79

LOS ANGELES—Theodore H. Cooper, 79, property master for motion pictures and TV, died Monday, January 19 at Cedars Sinai Hospital after a long illness. Born in New York City, Mr. Cooper moved to Los Angeles more than 60 years ago and worked as property master for the TV series Gunsmoke, Have Gun Will Travel and Death Valley Days. Cooper was a member of the #44 Local of the Affiliated Property Craftspersons union and was awarded that local's Gold Honoree's Lifetime Award on February 20, 1984.

Cooper is survived by his wife Freda and his two sons, Paul, senior vice president, west coast, Atlantic Records and Lewis, product coordinator with TKO graphics, Los Angeles. In lieu of flowers, contributions should be made to the Motion Picture and Television Fund.

ed—give the local stations something they can't get themselves—and it should have a celebrity host, since you really couldn't find a jazz disc jockey with the name value of, for example, an Imus or Howard Stern. David Sanborn seemed a good choice—because of his name value as a fusion artist in his own right, and because of his association with rock and roll (David Bowie, the Rolling Stones, Steely Dan, they've all used Sanborn).

"So we brought him into the studio for a voice test," says Denemark. "We didn't know if the guy had a lisp or a squeaky voice or what. It turned out that he had a nice, listenable voice—he wasn't Mr. Radio Pipes, but he didn't have to be, he's David Sanborn."

Next came the pilot and, in late-'85, the go-ahead to launch the show with the new year. The rest, as they say on the radio, is history.

"We set up a real interesting situation in terms of the satellite feed. We feed the show on Sunday. We produce the show, a two-hour show, as Hour A and Hour B—they're both self-contained and each doesn't promote anything in the other hour. So it doesn't matter if a station runs Hour A before or after Hour B. That way the stations can take the feed off the satellite for whatever two hours they want."

And take the feed they do. Rock fans, soul fans, easy-listening fans, all kinds of fans are settling down with their Sunday brunch of bagels, croissants, Spyro Gyra, Pat Metheny, and the odd cut by, say, Oliver Nelson. Some stations even get pre-recorded drop-ins and ID's from Sanborn, making the show sound like its being done right there at home.

116 stations. Not bad considering that, when Andy Denemark got up at NBC Radio's Christmas party in 1984 and proposed a toast to a jazz show on the network in 1985, his boss "looked at me and said, 'Yeah, have another glass of wine. What are you, out of your mind?'"

Power Station's Bongiovi Quiets Voyager Cabin

By Paul Iorio

/ YORK — Tony Bongiovi, who co-; The Power Station Recording Studio, ed make things a lot quieter for the pi- of the Voyager Aircraft during their re- breaking flight in December. This was mall accomplishment, given the fact pilots Dick Rutan and Jeanne Yeager t have gone completely deaf if the e level in the cabin hadn't been red.

hey were being subjected to upwards 5 to 120 decibels of sound pressure," Bongiovi. "That's almost as loud as a oncert — but that's for nine continu- ays. Now, that would make anybody af."

's also frequency dependent," he adds, asting rock amplification to the cabin "Rock 'n' roll bands have a lot more requency information coming out, and as mostly low. But if you were subject- listening to a rock band for twenty-four a day for maybe two days straight, it l probably approach maybe fifty per- of the equivalent to being exposed to ind of sound pressure level for that nt of time."

ngiovi teamed up with engineer Ed Ev- help conduct an acoustical study and op solutions. To that end, they devised 'bathing cap' helmet with three layers rier-vinyl inside. Then, with the help of west company called EAR, they came h an earphone piece that dampened bin noise while still allowing the pilots ir transmissions from the ground. In addition, they made suggestions about sealing up holes and moving fuel to dampen vibrations.

Their solutions worked; Rutan and Yeager traveled the 25,012 miles from Edwards AFB around the world and back to Edwards AFB in nine days without suffering any ill effects. Except, perhaps, disorientation ("Dick Ruttan said it was a weird sensation having to fly west to go home").

Some of their findings also apply to protecting the ears of rock musicians. "I would say the first person who's probably going to suffer any kind of hearing damage will be the drummer, because of the high-frequency output of the cymbals and things, and just being close to the instrument. So wearing earplugs could help them a lot....EAR makes these special earplugs that don't filter out too much of the music."

Another reason Bongiovi is interested in studying sound buffers is because he's an aviation enthusiast himself. This avocation has often paid off in terms of finding bands to record, since he regularly flies to out-of-the-way places in search of local talent.

Though he's always looking for new bands, his current client roster sounds like a veritable who's who of rock: Mick Jagger, David Bowie, Bruce Springsteen, his cousin Jon Bon Jovi, and others. And he sees his work with the Voyager as just a diversion. "As a release from the pressures of the industry," he says, "I enjoy working on projects like this."

LPs

VIRGINIA ASTLEY—Hope In A Darkened Heart—WEA WX78—Producer: Ryuichi Sakamoto

Astley's latest is yet another majestic testement to her clear pursuit of arresting emotional sentiments, themselves captured in wonderful, simple, classically-derived melodies. The highlight is the opening duet with David Sylvian on "One Small Hope." Former Yellow Magic Orchestra-member Sakamoto provides a cool, technological coloring overall.

THIS MORTAL COIL—Filigree & Shadow—4AD DAD 609—Producers: Ivo-John Fryer

Ivo's 4AD all-stars, hailing from such label regulars as Cocteau Twins, release their second collective under the banner This Mortal Coil. Rich, and atmospheric. Very much in the tradition of 4AD darkness with a menacing melodic seduction. A lavish, graphically appealing two-record package.

BILL NELSON—Map Of Dreams-Music From The Soundtrack Of The TV Series—Cocteau JC 19—Producer: Bill Nelson

Be Bop Deluxe visionary Nelson releases another of his occasional instrumental albums on his own Cocteau Records; this one for a BBC Channel Four television series. Some passages are beautiful and pastoral, others are technological pastiches of sound images and synthetic treatments. Imaginative titles like "Legions Of The Endless Night," "The Alchemy Of Ecstasy" and "Another Tricky Mission For The Celestial Pilot" are an indication of the spatial textures contained on the album.

CLAN OF XYMOX—Medusa—4AD CAD 613—Producers: Clan Of Xymox-John Fryer

Clan Xymox continue their expeditions into the heart of darkness and out toward the frontiers of experience. A saucy blend of brisk rhythms and dark, hypnotic trance.

THE BIBLE—Mahalia—Backs 12 NCH 111—Producer: The Bible

The Bible's "Mahalia" single is an invigorating example of the marriage of thoughtful, emotional songwriting and unpretentious-but-craftsmanlike production. A band to keep your eye on.

30 YEARS AGO IN CASH BOX

February 4, 1956—Rhythm n' Blues Ramblings. New York: Another smash quartet of releases finding its way to Atlantic distribs this week. Lavern Baker has a blockbuster in hew newest, "Get Up, Get Up (You Sleepy Head)." The gal's vocal gymnastics are further adorned by a rhythm whistler supporting. If this one doesn't take off like "Tweedlee Dee" a lot of people are going to be surprised. Incidentally the whistling is done by Breedlove, who wrote the tune. The flip, "My Happiness Forever," is another great Baker vocal. However, the side will probably be swamped since "Get Up" is so strong. Note to Messrs. Abramson, Ertegun and Wexler. How about a Lavern Baker 12" lp so that the couplings of Lavern's hits can be rescued. They are too great to be lost. We're thinking specifically of such waxings as "Tomorrow Night" and "Lucky Old Sun." Also released were Ray Charles, The Cookies and Ivory Joe Hunter. The latter's "A Tear Fell" has the Atlantic crew keeping their fingers crossed. They feel they have a release comparable to Ivory Joe's big hit, "I Need You So"...Chicago: Bo Diddley, The Drifters and Gene Edwards appeared on Chuck Dunaway's Rock 'n Roll show in Milwaukee. Bo is now in for a few days between bus touring...Muddy Waters and Howling Wolf on new waxings for Chess and Checker. Heavier promotions than ever planned for this label-...Paul Glass of All-State mighty pleased over continued reaction in Chi toward such artists as Lavern Baker and Fats Domino...Los Angeles: B.B. King, who has several good sides going for him at present, in town to play the Savoy Ballroom...Sam Evans played "The Death of Emmett Till" on his WGES show and the Chicago Phone Co. reported 8,394 busy signals immediatly afterward...Hot In New York City: 1. "The Great Pretender," the Platters 2. "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," the Sensations 3. "Tutti-Frutti," Little Richard 4. "Who Do Fool Fall in Love," the Teenagers 5. "I'll Be Home," the Flamingos.

LOU GRAMM—Ready Or Not—Atlantic 81728—Producers: Pat Moran-Lou Gramm—List: 8.98—Bar Coded

Gramm is no foreigner to success. The lead singer for rock outfit Foreigner was the voice behind their hits, including the runaway success, "I Want To Know What Love Is." On his own, Gramm has produced a driving, fierce rock and roll thunderball. Reminiscent in places of "Hot Blooded"-vintage Foreigner, "Ready Or Not" burns from start to finish, led off by the bulleting single, "Midnight Blue."

NEW AND DEVELOPING

IDEOLA—Tribal Opera—What A&M SP-755—Producer: Ma Heard—List: 8.98—Bar Coded

Ideola is the one-man genius of Mi Heard unleashed on 10 of the smarte freshest pop songs in years. In a dizzyi heady mix of XTC-ish primal rhythms, eracy and perspective, "Tribal Opera" livers the knock out one-two punch substance and beat.

POINTS WEST

SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS—Allied Artists Records has been placed in receivership, according to a Los Angeles Times report, as a result of a lawsuit filed January 20 by Union Bank. The report says Union claims they've been defrauded by Allied parent Consolidated Allied Co. of more than $7 million in loans, which were based on allegedly phony financial statements for assets of nearly $11 million. As for the validity of the Times story, Points West's call to Allied to confirm the report was answered by an officer from the State Court Recievers Office.

HEAT IT UP—L.A.'s The Heaters are doing quite well, thank you, since that fateful night at Josephina's in the Valley last fall.

BRUNO & THE BOYS—L.A.'s Heaters have been busy lately, ever since rakish Moonlighting star Bruce Willis happened into a gig of theirs at Josephina's in the Valley one night. Willis was so impressed, he collared the band to help him out with his recently-released Motown LP, "The Return of Bruno," and, well, the rest is history (or mystery, as the mythical Bruno would say). The album has generated an HBO special, a new Seagram's Golden Wine Cooler commercial, a spot on the recent Pointer Sister's NBC special, and an appearance on the American Music Awards last week (On tape. Willis had to work that night). There's also a forthcoming Universal Amphitheatre date with Willis, still pending as of this writing, plus a date of their own at The Roxy in March. Meanwhile, the band's vocalist/keyboardist Steve Thoma has been working with pal Glenn Frey, co-writing for Frey's new MCA LP, due out in late March. All this, and the band's still shopping a deal! (a demo has been readied, featuring original material). Deal or no deal, the band is doing very well just now, with many thanks to Willis and his nocturnal club hoppings. But Willis very nearly missed seeing the Heaters altogether, Thoma revealed to Points West over the phone last week. In fact, he even mistook another band for the Heaters. "He had heard about the Heaters from a number of people, who said we were at Josephina's every Wednesday night. Well, the Wednesday night that he picked to go to Josephina's was the first Wednesday that we didn't play. So Bruce shows up and he sits in with the band that was playing that Wednesday that we didn't play, and he thought they were great - they were also kind of a blues band - and he thought they were the Heaters!" Identities corrected, Willis came back the next night to see the Heaters, and after their set and a brewski or two, asked them to play on his album. The band agreed, but not without a certain degree of Hollywood cynicism. As Thoma explained, the Heaters' first reaction was "Yeah, right Bruce. We're gonna play on your album. Sure."

TURNER TUNE—Tina Turner sported a rough, jeans and cowboy boots look when she burned up the Shrine Auditorium in L.A. recently, performing for the American Music Awards crowd.

IN PARTING—Steve Winwood has been named as one of the first artists signed to Virgin Records American operations. He begins work on his debut Virgin album later this year, for a 1988 release . . . Local L.A. Mercury/PolyGram country recording artist Jenny Yates has a new single due February 13, a self-penned tune called "Hopeless Romantics" . . . Remember Spirit? (sing after me: "I . . . I got a line . . . I got a line on you, babe . . . "). Spirit's got a new album freshly recorded, now on the negotiating table, for which all tunes were written by original guitarist and vocalist, Randy California. California co-produced the LP with original drummer Ed Cassidy at London's Utopia Studios . . . Stiv Bators, formerly of the U.K.'s Dead Boys and Lords of the New Church, is relocating to L.A. where he's fielding offers for films and music. Bators, who has severed ties with I.R.S. and the Copeland organization, recently completed a role in the forthcoming Michael Nesmith film, Tape Heads . . . Warm-up fave Carmaig DeForest has been signed to San Francisco's Good Foot Records, with a debut LP, "One More Time (The Debut Album)," due March 1 . . . A new act of which to take heed, a techno-ish r&r band called Ethan, plays FM Station February 3 . . . Wrestler recording act Tin Star comes to Club Lingerie February 11 . . . Hollywood's World Theatre, an art-deco relic from the 20's, starts a new life next summer as a concert, theatre, video and film production and satellite broadcasting facility. The opening is planned to coincide with the city's 100th anniversary celebration . . . and beginning March 31, BMI will once again offer a series of film scoring workshops, with veteran scorer Earle Hagen, to a selected group of 20 students. Because of the popularity of last year's classes, the program has been upped from 8 to 10 weeks. Musical resumes, tapes and/or other relevant materials should be submitted no later than March 1 to Doreen Ringer, c/o BMI, 8730 Sunset Blvd., 3rd Floor West, L.A., CA 90069.

NEW FACES TO WATCH

Saxophonist Najee, whose debut LP "Najee's Theme" (EMI America) is getting some play on the jazz and black contemporary charts, says his aim is to "bring instrumentals back to the common ear; a lot of people miss it?" The common ear?

"Well, basically trying to make instrumental music somewhat appealing to the younger audiences. You know, the older audience has an appreciation for it, but the younger audience—you have to get them in different ways: get them with grooves and so on, because they're not attracted to the playing so much. And we wanted to make is so that radio won't have a problem playing it on most of their formats."

A couple of things to get out of the way: Yes, Najee's his real name (well, it's his real middle name) and it's pronounced with the accent on the second syllable. And, no, he didn't write "Najee's Theme" to give himself a theme song (he's too young for a theme song)—he didn't even write "Najee's Theme" (Rahni Song wrote "Najee's Theme").

Najee was born and raised in New York City and he took up the clarinet in sixth grade and the saxophone when he was about 14. He then followed a not-unfamiliar path for a young instrumentalist: he went to music school in Boston, in his case the New England Conservatory. There he studied with legendary reed instructor Joseph Allard and "listened to everyone. I guess some of the more modern people I listened to were, like, Michael Brecker, who, I think, is probably the trendsetter on the saxophone these days, and, of course, Grover and Ronnie Laws and David Sanborn."

Najee's father, who died when Najee was very young, was also a musician cellist with the New York Philharmon in fact. Najee doesn't really believe t music is inheritable, but he doesn't believe it either.

About his current success, Na says, "It kind of caught me by surpr in a way, 'cause I didn't expect it to t off as well as it did so quickly. I thou it would take a lot more time."

He's also not wasting any time making his future plans.

"I'm going on a tour, starting in F ruary, with Freddie Jackson and R Goodman & Brown. So I'll be out tour for about two months, or e longer; I'll be playing with Ray, Go man & Brown's band.

"We're talking about doing a po ble video, and I should be recording next album perhaps in the summer."

Farther into the future?

"I would love to go into more proc tion, maybe producing some new art that I think deserve a shot. And th basically it, I guess."

That's it. But there's one thing t Najee's's got that most other new ists don't have: a theme song. Might help him, but it certainly can't hurt.

Everything But The Girl: Po Chameleons With Style

By Brian Kassan

LOS ANGELES—Ben Watt, one half of the English duo Everything But The Girl, staggers out of one of the offices at Warner Bros. Records, after a phone interview, apparently with a zealous music journalist.

"I've just given an entire discourse on the history of popular music and our place in it," he groans rolling his eyes back, out of breath.

To that, Tracey Thorn, the other half of the duo, giggles.

After settling down, poised to answer another round of unrelenting questions from yours truly, Ben and Tracey are obviously quite at home with journalistic company.

"Are we here to talk about cash?" asked Ben, referring to the title of our publication. I Offered a brief explanation—the "cash box," was where the money from jukeboxes and other coin operated machines was collected from, and that Cash Box originally catered to that industry. Tracey replies, "We thought it was an astute comment on the relationship between pop music and money."

With their third stateside release "Baby, The Stars Shine Bright," Everything But The Girl are still a largely unknown quantity here.

What a shame.

Everything But The Girl craft love fectious melodies with intelligent, s lyrical landscapes. From their early Gilberto inspired compositions to the est experiment with classic Bacharac Dusty Springfield influenced orchestra Everything But the Girl are an imm appealing combo who could very well on here.

Although each of their three LPs ha sented a somewhat different soun feel—"Eden," a jazzy study of ro gone sour, "Love Not Money," a d politically tinged collection and their a decidedly more upbeat work, drenc resonant orchestrations—there is a which manifests itself with Tracey's s husky, sensual, torchy vocals and

"In the U.S., it took a real long time to build a base," he says. "The reason it stayed alive so long is probably because of the vid- eo-play MTV gave it."

That Europe has gone gold in America is pretty shocking, given that their first two albums didn't even come close. But their previous LP, "Wings Of Tomorrow" (Epic), and their debut, "Europe" (Hot Records), will be re-released later this year in the hope of cashing in on the gold of "The Final Countdown."

Still, the new album has two more singles on it — "Rock The Night" and "Carrie" — and, again, video exposure is seen as key to breaking them. "Showing the band to kids is crucial," says Quinn. "That and radio, obvi- ously. But video is what kept it alive long enough for radio to take a look at it seriously."

"One thing we've found is that with all the countries releasing it at different times, we've been running into a sync problem," he says. "'Rock The Night' has already come out in Germany and Holland, for in- stance, and it's performed pretty well. It went to number three in Holland."

The band members started Europe when they were still in high school, and after win- ning a contest at a talent show, they were given a recording contract as first prize. The quintet is led by Joey Tempest, who writes and sings most of the material, and the old- est of the group is but 24 years old. Though they recorded some of the album in the U.S., they've never toured here, but they tentatively plan to in March.

"It's nice to see a new band break through," says Quinn. "And hopefully this is only the first one of '87."

EAST COASTINGS

NONA HENDRYX is featured in Dance Theater Workshop's presenta- tion of The Big Picture, a performance- art mix of music, theatre, dance, and multi-media magic. Hendryx sings sev- eral new songs, most notably "The Winds Of Change" which will be includ- ed on her upcoming EMI-debut album, as a duet with Peter Gabriel. But the big discovery here is an unsigned and relatively unknown singer/songwriter named Gayle Tufts who sang with Hendryx and turned in a memorable performance. Though there are no plans as-of-yet to make a soundtrack LP, Hendryx's album will be released in the spring. (The Big Picture, performed by Yoshiko Chuma and the School Of Hard Knocks, runs through Febru- ary 1 at the Bessie Schonberg Theater.)

NONA TO EMI — Nona Hendryx releases her first EMI album in the spring, and one of the songs, "Winds Of Change," is a duet with Peter Gabriel. Hendryx currently sings that song and others in a theatrical produc- tion called The Big Picture.

THE HUMAN LEAGUE will play Manhattan for the first time in five years, giving three sold-out shows at the Ritz February 5 - 7. The League is a prominent exponent of synth-rock, and over the course of six albums they have sought to add a human element to an otherwise icy genre. "The first decision we ever made was — once we had all the synthesizers in — we said, what will everyone expect us to do?: songs about robots. We will never do a science fic- tion song in our career," says vocalist Philip Oakey. "It would just be too predictable, and we hate to do anything predictable. Whatever people don't ex- pect us to do next, we'll try and do. We're just English punks really."

"The first electronic punks," adds vocalist Joanne Catherall.

Though that may be a contradiction in terms, The Human League did start out (on an early British tour) as a sup- port act for Siouxsie and The Ban- shees. Their live shows in the U.S., however, have been rare; they gave one concert at N.Y.'s Palladium in 1980, fol- lowed by seven U.S. dates in 1982. So these Ritz shows, coming after the num- ber one success of "Human" ("Crash"/ A&M), take on added importance. "All the success we've had has been totally unexpected," says Susanne Sulley. "The Human League being number one in America still sounds like a fantasy." (The League also plays the Metro in Boston Feb.3 and the Warner Theatre in Washington, D.C. Feb. 10.)

UK BUZZ

The studios owned by a top producer of the early '80s have gone bust.

Martin Rushent, who produced the Human League's multi-million-selling album "Dare," among a string of other hits, has called in the receivers owing $1 million in debt.

His country studios, Genetic Sound Ltd., equipment and adjoining house are now to be sold as a package in an attempt to pay of Rushent's debts.

The joint receiver said, "Basically, the company has run out of money and we are now actively trying to find a buyer for it. For the last two years, the residential recording studio, which forms the bulk of the business, was trading at well below capacity and this, combined with owner Martin Rushent's personal difficulties, was very damaging to the business." Rushent now works for Virgin Records.

Independent label Strikeback Records just completed a massive promotion--in-store displays and club appearances-across America in conjunction with Videopool. The label has always been proud of its low budget, high art, videos. Its bands include Ledernacken from Germany, the Sinatras, Perfect World from Canada, and the two brothers from London who make up Land of Distraction.

MICRODISNEY

After creating a stir for the past few years on the independent scene, Microdisney are back, though this time they're signed to Virgin Records.

The exquisite songwriting partnership of Cathal Coughlan and Sean O'Hagan has changed little in its emotional content, although the playing and production have matured. The album "Crooked Mile" was produced by Lenny Kaye, ex-Patti Smith guitarist. Microdisney may be remembered for their Rough Trade albums, "Everybody is Fantastic," and "The Clock Comes Downstairs."

Songs on "The Clock" centered around the subjects of death and jealousy. Cal's bitterness remains intact.

"The songs on 'Crooked Mile' are about torture," he says.

Microdisney offer lyrics of childish appreciation of despair, tinged with irony. Sweet melodies offset Cal's stage sorrow and rage. A strange naivety and rawness add an essential power to Microdisney that makes them more than just another independent band gone major and blanded out. Something to watch out for.

Matt Johnson of The The, who became the most critically-acclaimed figure of 1986, is back with a new single, "Slow Train to Dawn."

"It's about infidelity, it's the best thing I've ever done," Matt tells Cash Box. "My girlfriend was almost moved to tears. She said it was almost too close for comfort. It captured her feelings perfectly. The song is a duet, so it presents the weakness of the male and the reaction of the female, and the whole hypocrisy of infidelity."

The former Skids member Richard Jobson, now with The Armoury Show, is not only back with a new single, "Love in Anger," but a new book, the loosely autobiographical Sixteen Years of Alcoholism.

"It's about a young Scottish alcoholic who runs away from Scotland only to find he has gone from one bad situation to further despair in another urban environment," Jobson tells Cash Box.

"Not nearly enough money is being spent on the problem of alcoholics. It's much worse than drugs. I drink whiskey macs, which is blended whiskey and ginger wine, and it turns us Scots into lunatics. But we aren't allowed to have drink in my house in Scotland because my mother had a bad problem, so my father doesn't allow alcohol ever in the house."

Jobson stresses the book is only loosely based on fact. "It sums up my feelings on when I left the Skids at 20 and had absolutely nothing to fall back on and nowhere to go. I had been 15 when I joined and knew nothing else, and it took me a long time to work things out."

Jobson, 26, insists that he is now happier than ever, with a new book a new record, a new home, and a new girlfriend."

HUE AND CRY

On the independent scene, watch out for two brothers, Patrick and Gregory Kane, who call themselves Hue and Cry. The Glaswegian duo have just released a single on Circa Records, the excellent "I Refuse."

"'I Refuse' addresses the pop cliches and sexual roles of the little girl and the young gun," says Pat. "My main inspiration comes from the feeling of Sinatra recordings, because you feel he was singing for you alone."

"I Refuse' is a very well-balanced pop tune, cerebral yet emotional.

AZZ FEATURE PICKS

VER OF THREE—Michel Peciani—Blue Note BT-85133—ducer: David Rubinson

trio kissed with lyrical brilliance—el Petrucciani, Wayne Shorter, and Hall—recorded live at Montreux '86. ter and Hall are a pair of jazz mas- at the top of their forms, and Michel s right into the improvisatory head- with all sails full.

E STATE OF THE TENOR: E AT THE VILLAGE VANARD VOLUME TWO—Joe derson—Blue Note BT-26—Producers: Stanley ch, Michael Cuscuna tough, masterful tenor foray from of the hard-bop heavyweights. The pany (Al Foster and Ron Carter), etting (the Village Vanguard), and repertoire (Bird, Monk, Mingus, lerson) are just right. A fine follow- o last year's excellent "Volume "

O MUSIC LIVE IN EUROPE—k Corea/Miroslav Vitous/Roy Haynes—ECM 1310—Producer: Manfred Eicher

Call it Chick Corea's Akoustic Band. These three make beautiful, swirling acoustic jazz with a rare depth of feeling and sense of common purpose. The Bill Evans Trio is the signpost, but these three individual talents are their own masters. This '84 recording is one of Corea's best.

ZOOT SUIT STOMP—Barry Miles—T.C. Records TC-35003—Producer: Barry Miles

Barry Miles, a fusion star of the '70s, returns here with a snappy, hook-filled fusion effort for the '80s. Miles did all the writing and plays everything, except the percussion (handled by brother Terry Silverlight), on his synthesizers.

LIVE AT THE WOLLMAN AUDITORIUM—Errol Parker Tentet—Sahara 1014—Producer: Errol Parker

Errol Parker's wild and wooly Tentet—a unique ensemble—in a highly-rhythmic, dandy live free-bop effort.

ON JAZZ

SWING HEIL—A number of books about jazz have come out recently: most of them collections of magazine and/or newspaper –R★icles by leading jazz critics. (The two most notable of that lot are Whitney Balliett's American Musicians, which collects all of the biographical pieces that Balliett has written for the New Yorker over the years; and Francis Davis's In The Moment: Jazz In The 1980s, the first book by one of America's more astute younger critics. Oxford University Press publishes them both—$22.95 for the Balliett; $18.95 for the Davis.) One jazz book, however, goes after something different, though not quite as different as its title might imply. The book is La Tristesse de Saint Louis: Jazz Under The Nazis by Mike Zwerin ($16.95, Beech Tree/Morrow), which carries the cover-line, "When jazzmen under Hitler achieved a music that defied the savagery of war."

A spectacular idea. Despite an official ban, jazz survived, in some respects thrived, in Europe under the Nazis. Django Reinhardt was entertaining in occupied France, Svend Asmussen was entertaining in occupied Denmark, things like that. What was the deal?

Anybody who is acquainted with Mike Zwerin's writing knows that they are not going to get the answer to that question in this book. You see, Mike Zwerin, a Paris-based music correspondent for the International Herald Tribune, writes, mainly, about Mike Zwerin—his world view, riddled with Jewish angst, is completely his own, every sentence he writes is autobiographical. This is not bad; in fact, it's terrifically entertaining: Zwerin has been a noted musician and the president of a steel company and he's an exceptional writer. But he won't, he can't, stick to the subject.

"Sticking to 'the subject' is bad form," he writes. "Only the widest defensible definition is adequate. Everything is linked, including the life that surrounds the writing of these words. The bio of the author on the jacket is part of the book."

So what we have here is Mike Zwerin roaming the world musing on the link between jazz and freedom: How does a music that needs to be free survive when its repressed? Zwerin takes us to Germany where he meets with a former SS officer who, it seems, is, aside from being a jazz fan, a good guy. He takes us to Poland, where jazz is currently having its problems; and to South Africa, which he calls Sad Afrika and which, with typical guilt, he toured as a musician for the USIA. He justifies his tour there, just as he, in a way, justifies the willingness of Django Reinhardt, Svend Asmussen, and others to pursue their musical course in the face of occupation. He is told, by an elderly German, that nobody who liked jazz could be a Nazi. He tells us how much weight he has lost recently, how he fears he's wasting away. He paints a beautifully-wrought picture of Django Reinhardt, encountering dozens of Django's "cousins" along the way, and quotes numerous sources—on jazz, on Nazism, on repression. Hasn't jazz always suffered repression?

"Lack of purpose, indecision, a search for some kind of meaning," he writes. The world of jazz is clogged with negative emotion. One level removed from direct emotion, we are looking over our shoulders, a negative emotion. We think about what we are playing and why rather than just playing. We are obsessed by the size of the audience rather than the quality of the music. What is catching up with us? The synthesizer? Funk? Is 'inefficient' public acoustic interior exploration still functional? Does it reach anybody? Who has time for it? Money to spend on it? Shouldn't we be making more noise? Has 'the classical music of the twentieth century' lost its relevance before the century even ends?"

Zwerin never answers any of the questions he raises. But the way the questions are raised makes for excellent reading. The Nazis, the book seems to say, have come and gone, jazz has survived. This is the way things were meant to be. Jazz, and the human spirit, will survive, too, in Poland and Sad Afrika. La Tristesse de Saint Louis is an insightful, fascinating book.

A GRAND EVENT—No matter how you slice it, Benny Carter is one of the true giants of jazz. One of the finest alto saxophonists of all time, he is also a gifted composer, arranger, bandleader, and trumpeter. His nickname is "The King" and, though he plays it down, it's rather appropriate. Benny Carter works, for the most part, as an altoist these days, but on February 26, at New York City's Cooper Union, the full range of his talent will be on display, as the American Jazz Orchestra salutes Benny Carter, ostensibly in honor of his approaching 80th birthday. Carter will be on hand to play, and to conduct some of his big band gems (as well as a new extended piece written for the concert). AJO music director John Lewis, who is also expected to mount the podium for some of the concert, will be at the piano. It is, by any definition amajor jazz event, the one that should really put the AJO on the map.

ALBUM ALLEY

Return Of Bruno—Bruce Willis—Matawn
atest actor "maanlighting" with a singing career is the increasingly papular Willis. His ged and soulful debut LP feotures guest spots by the Pointer Sisters, Temptations, Jeff er, ond others. This is obviausly o lobar of love, and the recard's lead single, "Respect self," is seeing excellent radia respanse in three farmats. Nate: Willis' ca-star Cybil Shepard tly signed a recarding deal with MCA. (Can you say "bandwagon?").

dy Or Not—Lou Gramm—Atlantic
l sola effart fram the Foreigner frantman breaks no new ground, but cantinues in the same as his previous wark with the graup. Shauld appeol ta basically the same crowd. Lead r duties are hondled well by Nils Lofgren, and "Midnight Blue" has started the LP aff an a g nate, with 25 adds this week.

ON THE CIRCUIT

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF, DEPT. . . . Far the eighth year in a raw, Cleveland's own WMMS 100.7 FM has been named the #1 radio stotian according to the Rolling Stone Magazine Reader's Pall. Ta celebrate, WMMS initiated their first Appreciation Day which took ploce last Sundoy, February 1. Highlighting the event was a free cancert given by rock star Joan Jett at Cleveland's own Phontasy Theater. The concert preceded Manday's warld premier af the feature film "The Light Of Day," starring Jett and Michael J. Fox, (who, alang with other cast members, was set ta attend the premier). . . . Also hanared by the readers of Rolling Stane was KSHE 95 FM in St. Louis, wha placed for the first time in the awards. KSHE garnered top honors in the category of stations in cities with adult populations under twa million . . . Congratulations ta both!

DATELINE . . . LONDON . . . On Monday, February 9, the 1987 British Record Industry Awards will be held in London, England. The annual show is the equivalent to our own Grammy Awords. Top nominees include Joan Armatrading, Madonna, Bruce Springsteen, Kate Bush, Sade, Chris DeBurgh, and Robert Palmer. The syndicated program will be telecast ta some 40 cities in mid-February - stay tuned!

A BAD YEAR FOR CLASSIC ROCK? . . . After the Las Angeles radia market had become inundated with the burgeaning classic rock farmat (spearheaded by LA's newest hit statian KLSX 97.1 FM), the established, (but ratings needy), KMET 94.7 FM has initiated a pragram ta eliminate nearly all classic rock fram their playlists. Instead, the "Mighty Met" will be concentrating on newer rock and developing rock acts (i.e. Timbuk 3, Georgia Satellites, The Smithereens, etc.). A recent article in The Las Angeles Times quoted newly appointed Pragrom Director Frank Cody as stating "I think KMET has kind af gotten stuck in the past. What we reolly want ta do is get out of formula radia. The station had its greatest success when it was a trailblazing statian, taking chances and setting the pace. . . . " OTHER KMET NEWS: January 1987 marked the return af legendory late night DJ Jim Lodd an the KMET airwaves. Back on the oir after a self-impased three month hiatus (see CB Radia News - Dec. 27, 1986), Ladd has once again avertaken the populace with his popular 10:00pm - 2:00am shift. Previously, Ladd hos worked with the biggest in Las Angeles radio. KNAC, a previaus nine year stint with the "Mighty Met," and mast recently with KLOS. Ladd is also renawned an the oirwaves for his popular, syndicated radia shaw "Innerview."

BUT CAN HE ACT? . . . Morning air personality Jay Thomas af Power 106, KPWR-FM/L.A. will be a featured guest star in consecutive episades af "Cheers" airing on Jan. 29 and Feb. 5 an NBC-TV. He appeared regularly on the ABC-TV hit series "Mork & Mindy," and has had rales an such popular television shows as "Spencer: Far Hire" and "Love Boat."

BUT WHAT ABOUT MS. DIPESTO? . . . On March 17, Hollywood Radio and Television Society will be honaring TV's "Moonlighting" stors Bruce Willis and Cybil Sheppard as international Mon and Wamen af the Year in braadcasting. The ceremonies far the 27th International Broadcasting Awards Dinner are to be held here in Las Angeles. As you know Willis new "Respect Yaurself" single is climbing the charts, and we hear that Cybil has a new MCA album in the works. . . .

IS IT A CRIME? . . . Ten lucky radia listener will appeor as extros on NBC-TV's "Crime Story" as winners in o rodio contest in 10 major cities acrass the U.S. The first to identify the "Crime Stary" theme song, ployed severa times each day, will win a pair of Roy-Ba sunglasses and will qualify far a grand-prize drawing to be held in each market. The winner will get an all-expenses-paid trip in Febru ory to the production set in Las Vegas, wi appeor os an extro, and will also receive $200 in spending money. D.J.'s from many o the markets will accampony the winners to La Vegas and will alsa appear os extras. Okay say CHEEEEEEZ . . .

FLASH BOX

A MAN ON THE GO—Cleveland's daminant CHR, WMMS-FM, has hired this happy guy, Brian Phillips, as their new PD. Brian comes to WMMS fresh from a stint with WSSX, the #1 CHR in Charleston, S.C., and everyone involved in the switch is ecstatic abaut the potential for growth in the Buzzard's future. Gaod luck, Brian.

WHY IS THIS MAN SMILING?—KISS 100's morning man, Kris Chandler, remains remarkably calm as vicious, blaadsucking teddy bears attack from all angles. Chandler returns ta WKSZ-FM's air lineup after a two year hiatus, during which he served the station as PD. "Na hard rack, na elevatar music" is Kris' new tag - perfect far the City af Bratherly Lave.

SILLY LOVE SONGS—Dan K. Reed, eve ning oir personolity at New York's WCB FM, will host a Valentine's Day special an th love sangs of the ex-Beatle, Paul McCartne The three haur special braadcast will run a the United Statians Pragramming Networ and we hear that it will be filled wit McCartney's meladic chestnuts. Hmmmm . . .

HEY, GET OFF MY CAR!!—British recarding sensation (and, uh, semi-uncovered model) Samantha Fax is shawn here cruising araund Haustan with Jahn Lander af KKBQ, wha recently interviewed her far his syndicated Hit Music USA shaw. Don't they laak cute tagether? Lander will soan be awarded the coveted CashBax Galden Cube Award far three consecutive appearances in FlashBox. Way ta ga, Jahn . . .

LADY ON A MISSION—During a recent conversation with the multi-talented Phyllis Hyman, she spoke candidly about the four year hiatus in her recording career. She was under contract to a major label that virtually ignored her career. That experience embittered her relative to record companies, however, she was not standing still. In fact, she was busier than ever during this period, because she is a very strong-willed determined lady who learned early on in her career how to earn a living without record sales being a part of her monetary income. During this period she was touring, doing concerts, night clubs ond casino dates with people like Bill Cosby as well as doing commercials including the recently released American Airlines commerical, representing various cosmetics lines and lecturing. Born in Philadelphio, this talented lady was nominated for a Tony Award for her performance of Duke Ellington's standards in Broadway's Sophisticated Ladies. Phyllis, with five albums to her credit, is ecstatic about her Philadelphia International album release titled "Living All Alone," which afforded her an opportunity to work with two industry giants, Kenny Gamble and Leon Huff. She is equally as proud of the fact that she is working with block people and some have been wtih her for six years, even though she didn't have o record out in four years. Her organization is 95% black, and her business has never run smoother, which should lay to rest a lot of the stories, there aren't any qualified blacks to handle various positions in the entertainment business. She spoke very enthusiastically about a project she is working on currently. That project is networking. She and her fine staff are busy putting together o list of black professionals from all areas of the entertainment business, who can ond will give directions to young aspiring blacks trying to enter the business. The primary objective of this networking system is to help these young talents to understand and avoid many of the pitfalls of the business that have claimed many talented individuals. She wants young blacks to know that they can and should look to each other for that much needed support system. It is with great pleasure that we welcome this classy, sophisticated, determined and mega-talented beautiful lady back to the vinyl end of the business. You are the consummate professional business woman that the world surely needs. The lady is a wonderful human being!

TAX TUNE-Athan Gibbs, tax accountant and president of Cap Tune Records in Nashville, has released what many industry experts are saying could be an on-going hit record particularly during income tax season. The song "Crazy Taxes" is the result of Gibbs spending more than Fourteen Years of listening to his clients moaning and complaining about taxes. He said, "If there is a joke about taxes, I have probably heard it." Everybody likes to fuss about taxes, because that's all they can do besides pay them. Thus, one line in the song: "Now you can cuss and fuss and burst into tears, but when you get through crying, Sam is gonna get his." Gibbs said, "If you want to start a conversation with a total stranger, all you have to do is mention taxes and you can strike o conversation that will last for hours. He also said that because the laws are written in the secret language of the government, many people call it Crazy Taxes, thus the line: "I understand the English language, I even speak a little French, but to fill out all these tax forms, I need the language of the government." Gibbs added, "Crazy taxes was not written as a tax protest song. It was written and produced in fun to give the tax paying public something to laugh about as they work the first four months of the year to pay their Crazy Taxes." The 12 inch single recorded by Nashville based Blaxk Widow, (who have toured in Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, Spain, Greece, Turkey and the Carribean), is an r&b band that applies its' own style to this rap song about taxes. Unlike some rap records that are incoherent and ramble endlessly at any thought that rhymes, "Crazy Taxes" carries one central flowing theme from beginning to end. The diction is clear so that the listener can understand and identify with the rap. Included in the packaging is a copy of the first income tax return 1913, therefore you can compare it with the new 1987 tax forms. Early radio play includes WDIA, WLOK AND WHRK, Memphis, WQQK, Nashville, WEKS, Atlanta and WANM, Tallahassee. For your copy of this potential hit, call 615-876-7460.

NEW FROM KOPPER—Jam Power Productions is extremely proud to unleash the debut LP from KMA recording artist: Kopper. An extremely sexy and talented young singer, Kopper created traffic jams on the dance floors with her club smash, "Second To None" in 1986. Her debut album titled, "Purple Passion" contains eight incredible selections, guaranteed to put the "F" back in the Funk! Jam Power's team of Ronnie Vann, David Stewart and Chuckii Booker produced the album that will undoubtedly be the porty LP of the year. The groove is definitely in Kapper's music and her voice creates a lasting impression. The smash hit, "Second To None" is joined by six other standout tracks all showcasing Kapper's ability to get behind her heavy-duty material. No cream has been added to this coffee as Jam Power creates a sound that could put them in complete control! Steve Berry, president of Jam Power Productions feels that Kapper's "Purple Passion" album has enough energy and funk to power a 747. Top cuts include: "Velocity," "Purple Passion," "Second To None" and the current single, "Speaking Japanese. Kapper--She's worth her weight in gold.

INDUSTRY ACTIVITY—Chris Powell indicated that the new release for that dynamic trio of young ladies called Teen Dream is slated for release on February 13, 1987, on Warner Bros. Alan and Preston Glass are busy working on projects for Tramaine Hawkins, Angela Bofill and Jennifer Holiday. Preston collaborated with Lionel Job on a hit for Starpoint titled "He Wants My Body."

HIGH PRIORITY

A High Priority Salute To JAY JOHNSON AND WTLC 105FM

Dedication and determination of people like program director Jay Johnson help put the "soul" in WTLC 105FM's Soul Stereo. WTLC is the only full-time service to the city's 167,400 Black residents, plus on additional 44,200 Blacks in cities and towns throughout Central Indiana, and it's the only Black owned and operated FM station in the state.

Congratulations to Jay Johnson and WTLC in Indianapolis, America's 12th largest city. Your contribution to the economic growth and development of the area are warming up the "Frost Belt."

B/C PROFILES

Randy D. Jackson
Writer/Producer/Bassist/Vocalist/
and All Around Man About Town

Laak out party animals, yau ain't seen nothing 'till yau've seen Mr. Randy D. Jacksan in action. That's D far daring, D far Dynamic and a wit that wan't quit. Randy, a.k.a. "King," has recenily acquired the rights ta a piece of the stage with the guys in Journey as bass player and vacalist extraordinare.

Naw let their be no confusian. This Randy Jacksan may be the spitting image of Clarence Clemmons, but he is in no way, shape or form related ta Michael, Janet, Jermaine ar anyane else in the Jackson family. Our 28 year old music man cames direct from San Francisco, via Baton Rouge, LA. where he grew up listening ta the Matawn saund, James Brown, John Coltrane and the Stanes. He picked up the drums at the age af 12, thanks ta the influence from his brather Herman, wha was later the drummer far B.B. King, and fram there, he maved inta alta, then guitar and finally, his claim to fame, the bass.

Talk abaut yaur ga getters! Never enaugh can be said abaut his extensive backgraund which includes the Louisiana All-Star Stage Pragram, a schalarship from the Natianal Assaciation af Jazz Educatars to study at Las Vegas' Naje Stage Band Pragram, member af Fred John and the Playboys, member af the Batan Rauge Youth Symphany, received a grant fram the National Endawment far the Arts to study with Chuck Rainey in Las Angeles, studied at the Billy Cobham Clinic at Sauthern, played in Billy's band far twa years, recarded albums with him, taured the states and Eurape, etc... and all by the age af 21!

Now, yau might think that this is backgraund enaugh. Well, dan't be surprised ta find aut that Mr. Jacksan alsa finished a B.A. in Music, taught jazz at a perfarming arts schaal in Galvestan, TX. and has been warking an projects with Narda Michael Walden for the last six years.

Randy's versatility has sparked his writing and producing towards a variety af music. He has became a master af markets while maintaining his own style, and laves it. In his wards, "I like producing different genres as appased to just r&b or pop. Ta me it's mare impartant ta be inspiratianal ta others than to follow someone elses lead. Sa, I invalve myself in whatever I feel there's a need far," and Randy can fill a need just abaut anywhere he sees one. He's been a member af Jean-Luc Ponty's band, and has recarded and/ar perfarmed with Aretha Franklin, Journey, Clarence Clemmons, Whitney Houston, Sheena Easton, Rodney Franklin, Herbie Hancock, Jeff Lorber, Lenny Williams, Narda Michael Walden, Taxxi, etc...

On the praductian end af things, Jacksan has three sangs an the current Krystol LP entitled "Passian Fram A Waman," including the title cut ca-written by he and wife Liz, and has ca-praduced (with Preston Glass) the farthcaming debut album by the modern British band, Dance Like A Mother.

At present, Randy is warking an a very exciting debut album with his wife and partner, Liz Jackson, wha alsa plays keybaards, sings and ca-writes their material. The album is a modern blend af pap, r&b, rack and dance making it categarically uneasy. "There's a big difference in audiences," explaines Jacksan. "A Lionel Richie and Whitney Houston, for example, fall right in the middle under that Diana Ross demagraphics ranging fram 5 ta 95yrs. There's samething far everyone, all ages. That's gaad far them, but persanally, Liz and I want to pinpaint araund the 12 to 35yr range."

"Up until naw, record campanies have shyed away fram prajects that have defied descriptian. Hawever, music is maving inta a new age, and the recard industry is beginning ta take mare risks. The time is finally up far 'that went ta #1. Let me have ane,' ar 'Only thing my campany needs is another Whitney Haustan!' Haw many af thase can there really be. Even radia is starting ta lean towards AOR, because it's gatten sa that almast every CHR station in almost every city is playing the same sangs every haur. They all know it's time for a change."

Randy considers warking with Journey ta be an inspiratian. He laves Perry's Motown influence, (Marvin Gaye, Jackie Wilson, Sam Cooke), and the wonderful meladies which stem fram the influence af singers as opposed ta the stylists af today. "It just re-iterates ta me that melody is a big key in writing sangs. Alsa, the crowds are like nathing I've ever experienced befare. They're wild as ever, and always thoraughly exciting."

Randy D. Jacksan can be seen an MTV in two videos; Aretha Franklin's "Jumpin' Jock Flosh," and Jaurney's "The Girl Con't Help It." Don't miss his wild and passianate perfarmances, and be an the laokout for more to come fram this musical pawerhause!

COUNTRY PROMOTION OF THE WEEK

POWELL, WY

KPOW—DAVID JAMES—MUSIC DIRECTOR

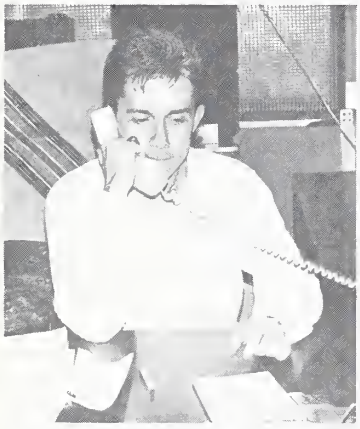
PROMOTION—FOR FARMERS AND RANCHERS ONLY

In the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming, agriculture is one of the mainstays of the economy. KPOW, in conjuction with area businesses and community organizations, is putting on a promotion designed to aid the farmers and ranchers.

Listeners sign up at participating sponsors and drawings will be held on Farmer/Rancher Appreciation Day. Four grand prize packages will be given away to qualifying agricultural listeners: one each for a qualifying bean, beet and barley farmer who will win seed, fertilizer, chemicals and fuel. The fourth grand prize package will be awarded to the winning rancher and includes vet services and supplies, feed, fencing materials and other lumberyard items. Additional prizes will be given away that require no qualifications, such as airline tickets, mechanical services and more—over $10,000 worth of prizes in all.

A View Towards Market Expansion

(The following is the second of a two-part interview with RCA's Joe Galante.)



JOE GALANTE
Vice President & General Manager of RCA, Nashville

By Tom McEntee

"If we're up 1%," says Joe Galante, referring ta the averall cauntry music market, "I'll be happy."

That market has seen little expansian in recent times. The appearance af expansion, reflected in any particular label's market share, is not sa much indicative af grawth far the entire country music community, according ta Galante, as it is an indicatian af a prapartionate decrease in someone else's portian. Sa what might seem ta be grawth may be, in reality, only a temparary shift in existing market shares.

"In arder far aur sales base ta expand, we need the AC chart," he offers. At this point, Galante reaches far a copy af a recent survey shawing that, in 1981, cauntry product made up aver 15% of the AC chart, but has since plunged steadily and consistently until it accaunted far a mere 3% last year. In the CHR area, says the same survey, cauntry praduct has had absolutely na impact far at least the last three years.

"One af the biggest prablems facing cauntry music," he claims, "is the bad rap it's been getting (fram thase in ather farmats). I dan't see anything an the harizan that's gonna change that apinian."

Nanetheless, he stresses the impartance af regaining a beachhead in the AC area as ane strategy necessary ta the widening af the cauntry sales base. Still, it won't be withaut same casualties.

"I think it's ganna be like being at Narmandy an D-Day. The first cauple af peaple an the share are likely ta be shat ta hell, just as the first cauple af records that ga an the AC (ar CHR) charts are nat ganna perfarm ta the degree they shauld, because there are ganna be a lat af nan-believers in the ather formats. But they will open the daars far ather peaple ta fallow.

"I dan't have a solutian as to how yau can further that. I anly knaw it's a market that we have ta appeal to, and that the cauntry statians shauld be able ta claim thase artists first. They shauld be germane to aur farmat and nat the ather way araund.

"One of the things I've naticed is that Billy Vera and the Beaters (an Rhino Records), who have ane of the tap CHR records aut, are naw winding up an the cauntry charts. Which is akay. I think that's fine. People shauld be able ta hear that. But, it wauld be nice if we had same af our own that were gaing the ather way—far the identificatian far aur format."

Rannie Milsap's super-successful "Last In The Fifties" LP awes anywhere from 20 to 40% af its sales to the AC play it received, claims Galante. As a result of that play, added ta Milsap's normally strang cauntry play, the album "will go platinum in 3-4 months." Another piece af praduct that similarly benefited from strong AC respanse, he says, was Kenny Ragers' "Morning Desire," which, like the Milsap LP, is alsa on its way taward the platinum mark. " 'Bap' was the same," he says, painting ta Dan Seals' EMI/America smash af a year aga. "That was evident on that record. You can get to a certain level and then it just kicks it right in."

In timing the marketing of the product, he paints aut that there are thase periads when the pap-daminated marketplace experiences a certain saftness, especially in between the ance-a-year releases fram the pap superstar element. He sees thase periads as being perfect appartunities far country product to "slip into the cracks" and take up more shelf space.

Aside fram saliciting airplay autside af the cauntry farmat, Galante suggests that ane af the avenues ta an expanded valume for Nashville-based labels is through the intermixing af country releases with same af the best praduct fram ather areas af music, exemplified by "what MCA is daing with the Master Series" as well as same af the hat names from the gaspel arena, including Amy Grant and such rising cammadities as Michael W. Smith.

Here he paints ta the successful "crossaver" pattern af Grant. "I think that the thing that Mike [Blantan] and Dan [Harrell] have done over at Reunian with Amy was obviously successful cammercially, but it was tastefully dane. Ta me, that's the key. I dan't want something that smacks of 'Laak what they're daing!' They chase great singers to do duets with—or anytime she was invalved in a project it was staged correctly and it was dane with class.

"I think that's the way to approach it, if you're getting inta sameane else's market. First af all, yau have to realize that yau're getting inta sameane else's territary and yau gatta handle it the right way.

"I wauld think that that's the way we'd appraach it—an that level—regardless whether it's doing duets or pictures with sameane else autside the format—that kind af thing.

"Nat that it's autside the farmat dramatically, but [Bruce] Hornsby and Restless Heart—that whale taur. I think it's ganna da same things for both sides because some af the country falks will be expased ta Harnsby and Hornsby will be expased ta cauntry music. Same af these CHR people shawing up—the radia falks—are gonna hear what country music is taday. And I think that's damn good."

Throughout his conversation, Galante mentions competitive labels and many of their successes.

"To sit here and nat acknawledge your campetitian and the things they've done is crazy. When yau go walking araund this building, everybady is playing samething fram ather labels. In fact we have a tape here that we pass thraugh, af all the singles reviewed, and in the charts. We all listen to 'em. We may nat like 'em all, but we listen ta 'em. And then we stack aur product up against it. Because yau find aut what samebady's playing and why they're playing it. Yau'd be surprised. And sametimes yau raot—yau really da raat—far sameane else ta come thraugh. Because yau knaw that daars apen up and then everybady can fallaw thraugh."

All things taken inta consideration, Galante sees a bright future far the cauntry business. "During the next few years—mare tawards the latter part—I see a grawth in cauntry music. I really da. Because all the energy that we have yau can't harness, yau can't channel it. It's just ganna farce its way through."

By the same taken, he adds that "we've gat toa many records right naw far the marketplace ta handle. I dan't mean that in the sense that peaple shauldn't be signing and everything else; I just think we're overly aptimistic. Everybady's gat 97 artists and, af caurse, they're all ganna sell, and isn't this a great periad of time and all that...

"Yeah, akay, I understand all that... Hawever, I think that with radia reducing their lists, as we've talked about, and the cansumer dollar being split in a lat af areas, we have ta be realistic. And I wauld hape that, as a tawn, when we find a real winner—like a Judds, or a Randy Travis—that that's what we wave as a tawn. Not that we wave the banners of traditianal music or contemporary music, because, to me, that's what halds us back."

Putting labels on our product can be to aur detriment, he adds. "When yau ga in and tell the customer what you've got, maybe the custamer daesn't want it the way yau've described it. Yau'd be surprised, if you use the wrong ward with them—'traditianal'—maybe I'm nat a 'traditianal' buyer, maybe I'm a 'country' buyer and I think 'traditional' is bluegrass, for instance. I dan't knaw all the nuances ta yaur terminalagy. Maybe I don't like 'crossovers,' maybe I just like 'cauntry.' I think that's a danger.

"But when you say 'Here it is. Make your own opinion. Here are the benefits of my product,' you let them decide.

"We dan't have ta warry abaut 'Is it danceable?' ar 'Daes it belang ta the traditianal marketplace?' Just leave it alone! It'll take care of itself on that side....There's the period that we've gane thraugh in the past: 'Let's cross aver. Let's ga pap. Let's get "traditional." Let's get "bluegrass." Let's get "roats-y".' I mean, I'm gonna start laaking for, or advertising for, singers that have gat raats? C'mon, guys!

"Wynanna's influence is Bonnie Raitt. I mean, she's definitely a very raotsie, traditianal persan. Yes, she is, in her farmat. And all Wynanna did was take that same ematian—in terms af a mentor—and run with it. Great! That's absolutely wonderful."

"Our music is authentic. I dan't care whether it's got bluegrass influences ar it's got synthesizers. That's aur music. That's what we are praducing in this tawn that's nat praduced an place else. It is aurs.

"And these peaple writing the sangs and perfarming them are aurs. They are fram this tawn. And that's the stamp."

Billy Parker—Operations Director/Program Director
KVOO—Tulsa, OK

Kerry Wolfe—Music Director
WRNS-FM—Kinston, NC

TULSA—If killing two birds with one stane is goad, then nailing three with the same stane is even better, right? Well, thot's what Billy Parker is up to these days—and hos been all his life. No, he's not really out there in Tulsa throwing rocks at aur feathered friends, but he's bolancing three aspects af the entertainment business that, he says, wark well together. Thase activities include radia, soles and "pickin' and grinnin'."

When he first started at KVOO, Billy enjoyed the freedom of the 11 p.m.-6 o.m. It ollowed expression in oll three oreos: he sold the spots for the show, got to do his bosic rodio stuff—ond song, right there over the ole oirwoves with his trusty guitor ploying olong with the whole thing. Billy did overnights for seven yeors before onyone got wise to him ond promoted the jock to PD/MD ond mode him work day shifts.

Billy's been with KVOO for 17 yeors—pretty remorkoble in this business. His ottitude about his position ot the stotion os vice president, operotions director ond progrom director moy explain why he's stoyed in one place oll this time. "It's o perfect combinotion becouse it fits together so well—my love of music mokes progromming ond selling exciting."

There wos o time, bock in the onnols of Billy's life, when only two ospects of his triod were in place—he wos ploying music ond selling, but the selling wos in the grocery store business. Then come o doy in 1959 when he heord thot KFMJ-Tulso wos looking for o port-time d.j. There it was—the third birdie. And Billy took o shot ot it.

It fit—he ended up being offered full-time work ot the country-formotted stotion ond stoyed for eight months before moving on (in normal rodio foshion) to KFDI-Wichito, then to KLPR in Oklohoma City, ond finally returning to KFMJ in 1963. All this time he was playing country music bath an the radia and an his guitar in "every grocery store parking lat in town."

Then, unexpectedly, the triad split up again. He didn't mean for it to hoppen, but, well, when Ernest Tubb offers you o jab warking with him and the Troubadours, whot's a fello to da? Noturally, the musician jumped at the chance and played with the renawned singer at the Grond Ole Opry and on the road far three years.

But while Billy wos working on the ane focet (entertoining), he missed the other two (soles ond radio). Something in him needed the triod in ploce, so, in 1971, he went bock to Tulso. A friend of his who hoppened to be the g.m. of KVOO, soid, "Billy, if we ever chonge to country, I'd love to hove you." Lo ond behold, o few months loter, KVOO did just thot ond Billy wos hired. When the stotion gove him his choice of oir shifts, the musicion in Billy noturolly chose the oll-night show.

Since he would hove to give up rodio ond soles to be a full-time musician but doesn't have to give up being o musicion to stoy in rodio ond soles, Billy is right where he wonts to be—where he needs to be to hove oll three ospects of his life in ploce. He records on Soundwoves in the U.S., ond Conyon Creek for o speciol Canodion project, but he no longer hos regulor bookings every weekend. "You hove to be in control of it," he soys. "Don't let yourself be cromped, or you won't do o good job."

Now, Billy's shift goes from 10 o.m. to noon everydoy. But when he's not on the oir, you con find him working deals with The Jim Holsey Compony, or Pontioc, or pickin' ond grinnin' in o neorby grocery store porking lot....

Amy Lavelle

KINSTON—You never know when it's going ta strike. There are often warning signals, na symptoms, and by the time yau know it's got you, it's tao late.

"It" is the radio bug. It carries a terminal condition—radiaitis—terminal because, na matter haw yau try to shake it, it's usuolly gat yau for life.

Kerry Wolfe, the yauthful music directar at WRNS-FM almast escoped the malady, but it caught him unaware. He was minding his own business, peacefully pursuing a degree in Wildlife Bialogy at North Corolino Stote when he innocently decided to spend some between-closs time working ot the compus rodio stotion, WKNC.

Slowly ot first, ond then more quickly, rodioitis got its hooks into Kerry. He no longer cored about his studies, his grodes slipped os he spent more ond more time ot the stotion. As the condition spreod, he become m.d., then p.d., then stotion monoger ot WKNC, ploying heovy metol rock ond roll—ond still, he couldn't get enough.

He went to work ot country stotion WKIX in Raleigh, working for Mike Chopmon ("one hell of o progrom director" in Kerry's estimotion). He storted port-time, then went to full-time nights, still working ot hord rock WKNC between classes.

The next stoge in the progressing oilment resulted in Kerry chonging his mojor. The life of o wildlife biologist wos for from his mind now: he become o Speech Communicotions mojor with on emphosis on Telecommunicotions.

And still it wosn't enough. He olso went to work port-time for on odult contemporary station, WYYD. "I hod rodio in my blood," the poor man admitted, "ond I couldn't get it out."

So, during the time when rodioitis hod its greotest hold over Kerry he wos stotion manager of hord rock WKNC, leorning from Chapman at country-formatted WKIX, learning fram classes in cammunication, and miking it ot odult cantemporory stotian WYYD! The boy had it bod.

After groduation, Kerry went to work for WYYD full time. When the p.d. left, he found himself o 23-yeor-old operations manager. Howewer, when the station switched ta satellite, he become bared (o side effect of his canditian) and left WYYD far o job at WRNS, an hour's drive away.

"After obout six months—ond 60,000 miles on my cor—I moved [to Kinston]," Kerry soys. He odds, with understondoble pride, "When I got here we were 7th in the morket. Our first book—ond second book—[ofter my orrivol] showed us ot 1st in the morket ocross the boord."

Once o person occepts the foct thot rodioitis is going to offect his entire life, he often settles in ond goins o degree of peoce ond insight concerning the condition. Kerry seems to hove olreody reoched that point, no longer trying to work three jobs, focusing insteod on the music.

"We ploy contemporory country here," he soys contentedly, "We don't ploy o lot of records—we hove o 45-song ploylist—but we do go out on o limb ot times. I meon, I don't hove onything ogoinst independent product. If a record fits our rodio stotion, if it's o positive record, I'll ploy it." Kerry exploins thot he stoys owoy from cry-in-your-beer songs, but thot thot doesn't rule out traditionol country records "os long os they're positive. Trovis fit here, ond Yookom, ond Jones still fits."

And Kerry fits—he's where he wonted to be, where he had to be once the radio bug bit: with o mike to his mouth ond o record in his hands, spinning music over the oirwoves.

RETAIL HOP TALK

ARM CONVENTION AGENDA SET—For the second year, the Store Managers Program, which is geared toward retail record store managers, small independent retailers who are customers of one-stops, and branch personnel of NARM wholesalers, will take place February 15 and 16, during the 29th annual National Association of Recording Merchandisers Convention which you probably know is scheduled for February 13-17 at the Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach. A $50 registration fee entitles antendees to sample two full days of convention activities. The program kicks off sunday with the seminar, "In Store Displays: How To Be Creative With Limited Time and Space." Consultant Peter Glen, who advises many manufacturer and retailer clients including Nike, Sears Roebuck, and Chess King, will conduct a hands-on demonstration of display building, featuring presentations by field merchandisers from WEA, CBS, and The Handleman Co. Winners of the NARM/CMA display contest—both rack jobber and retail—will also be on hand giving demonstrations. Product presentations from Columbia-Epic-Portrait and Associated Labels—Chrysalis-Masterworks; RCA-A&M-Arista distribution; and MCA and Motown round out the afternoon's schedule. The A&R Lifeline: It Drives the Beat," will be Sunday's featured evening seminar, set to begin at 4 p.m. Panelists from several A&R departments, including chairman Bob Sherwood of Columbia Records, will discuss the process involved in discovering the music, the artists , and getting a viable product to the streets. Sunday night's highlight will be a "Miami Splash" party, sponsored by Spec's Music Company, which will be held at their flagship Coral Gables store, the event will feature food, entertainment, a raffle drawing, and surprise appearances by major recording artists. Buses will be available to transport attendees from the Fontainebleau Convention base to the Spec's store. MTV VJ Alan Hunter will be on hand as M.C. for the raffle drawing giving away numerous prizes including the grand prize—an all expense paid trip to London, England to complete a record run at Tower Records' London store. Second grand prize is also a record run at their Miami store. Other prizes include VCRs and CD players. The Monday program begins at 7:30 with the seminar, "Security: The Customer and the Employee." Mike McCaffrey, who heads his own security consulting firm, will lead the discussion of the latest developments in preventing retail theft, which was prompted by the increased number of CD thefts in the past year. Product presentations from WEA, PolyGram, and CEMA round out the afternoon's schedule. "The Computerized Record Store," seminar is set for 4 p.m. and will feature a panel discussion by Bob Schneider of Western Merchandisers. He will guide the examination of computer hardware and software designed to help small to medium retailers prepare their companies for the age of telecommunications. The Store Managers Special will conclude Monday evening as participants are invited for the first time to attend the NARM Awards Banquet, which has traditionally closed every NARM Convention since 1958, and features the presentation of the NARM Best Seller Awards. Registration for the program can be completed on-site, however, NARM members are encouraged to register early. For more info call (609) 596-2221.

MOVIE MOGUL II—MCA Home Video is following up last year's "Be A Movie Mogul" campaign with 15 more films on videocassette priced at $24.95 in their "Movie Mogul II" program effective March 26. Some titles include Scarface (1983), The Deer Hunter, Fast Times at Ridgemont High, Dune, and Repo Man among others. The program's theme, featuring the Movie Mogul character, will be incorporated into a million dollar advertising and promotional campaign that includes national television spots, trade and consumer print ads. Special point-of-purchase materials will be shipped to retailers during the limited-time offer. The p.o.p. kits include announcement sheets, posters, four page color catalog sheets, counter cards with take-ones and a unique pop-up display piece.

AUDIO/VIDEO

THE WINNING VIDEO—There's been a Rams video, a Raiders video, the Super Bowl Shuffle, the NFL Video Trivia Game, and there'll soon be a San Francisco Giants tape, just to name a few. If this isn't indication enough, here's the situation: Major league sports videos are becoming a big business. The question is, how well does a tape sell when the team is losing? In certain markets, the answer is "not well," according to David Helfant of Fandel Management. Helfant is executive producer, along with veteran music video producer Alexis Omeltchenko of Pendulum Productions, of the forthcoming Giants video and the L.A. Raiders Silver/Black Attack video (the latter was produced by Omeltchenko). "I think you've got to take into account the reaction of the city to the team," said Helfant. "For example, if we were to do a video of the Denver Broncos, irrespective of whether they won or lost they would sell a certain amount of music because the fans are so fanatical. In L.A. - and people warned me about this in advance - the fans are very fickle. They're so used to having a winning team, that when the team doesn't win, not only do they not want to be involved, they actually ridicule them." That a team's losses will effect cassette sales, particularly in the L.A. market, was a lesson Helfant and Omeltchenko learned the hard way. With pre-orders of 30,000 cassettes of the Raiders video, virtually all of those orders were retracted when the team lost its third game last season (eventually, about 2,000 pre-orders were regained). "(The losses) absolutely affected the sales," said Omeltchenko. "No one expected that." It's a mistake they'll never make again. With the upcoming Giants video, produced by Glenn Goodwin & Associates (Dancing On The Ceiling) the production team won't rely on baseball stars alone to sell videos. This time, the project will involve several well-known recording artists - as yet unnamed. Songs will be submitted to the featured artists by several writers, including the team of Craig Bartock and Harlan Lansky (now of the band Royalty), who provided the Raiders rap'n'roll music. The artists will then have their choice of performing the submitted material, or coming up with material of their own. As for a record label to release the accompanying album, Rhino Records, who released the Raiders EP, won't be involved, and Helfant thinks the recording will probably end up with the label of a given recording artist. But aside from the artist tie-in, which is certain to boost sales of the $19.95 videocassettes (et. al.) with or without a winning season, what truly differentiates the Giants tape from other sports music video projects is that a percentage of the profits will be donated in support of the anti-drug movement in the bay area.

NASTY—Bette Midler stars in* Ruthless People, on video from Touchstone in February.

CBS/FOX PACTS WITH ISLAND PICTURES—A multi-million-dollar agreement has been signed by CBS/Fox Video and Island Pictures, giving CBS/Fox exclusive U.S. home video rights to seven Island films, two of which, She's Gotta Have It and Down By Law, are currently running theatrically. The videos will be released through CBS/Fox under an Island Pictures Video label. Other than the afore- mentioned titles, the deal covers five films in varying stages of production and preproduction. They include: Treat Williams in Sweet Lies, Tom Hulce in Slam Dance, River Phoenix in Jimmy Reardon, Aidan Quinn in Robinson Crusoe, and Straight To Hell, starring Sy Richardson and Joe Strummer, featuring cameos by Grace Jones, Dennis Hopper and Elvis Costello. Four or five of the tapes will be released this year, and the rest in '88.

IN GOOD CONSCIENCE—As part of WCI's recent decision to disinvest from its holdings in South Africa, Warner Home Video has announced its entry into an "Agreement in Principal" which aims to divest the company of its home video business in South Africa to the Gallo Group, a home video distribution subsidiary of Tony Bloom's South African conglomorate, Premier Group Ltd. The move is being orchestrated "in the most equitable manner possible" to workers, according to a prepared WHV press statement, and all profits from the divestiture will be contributed to human rights and educational organizations in South Africa.

jazzy guitar arrangements.

Their sound is at once fresh and unique, yet at there is a sense of melody and style which is timeless and traditional. Although the sense of style and mood are constant, the sound is hard to pin down.

Tracey and Ben, both possessing the same elegance and style found in their work, as well as considerable wit, shed some light on that subject and other ponderables.

"I think because of those differences, you can't describe the actual sound," says Tracey. "There are fundamentals which remain the same. It's my voice which obviously carries on through it and there is something in the way that we write our melodies which remains constant—a sort of simplicity, a very melodic approach. There is a certain mood."

"However much we try to thrash is out," Ben adds, "I think there is something overridingly melancholic about everything we seem to do. Even when we write our most optimistic songs, they do seem to be tinged with a sort of contrary mood that seems to be all pervasive in what we do. I don't think it's a real self indulgent sort of pessimistic, self-pitying melancholy, it's much more a mood. A sort of atmospheric lyricism if you like. Even when we are at our most melancholy, some people might even say morose, I think we can still be very uplifting in what we sing about. I think some of the best songs ever written were the saddest songs. Richard Thompson once said people just weren't interested in being happy and Charlie Rich said he didn't ever see how he could sing a happy song. If it's good enough for Charlie, it's good enough for me."

Thorn and Watt were asked to record together after both recorded solo projects for the Indie label, Cherry Red. Tracey had also worked with an all girl group, the "Marine Girls," which she describes as an very "amateurish, post-punk band." They recorded a one-time single under their current name which was the slogan taken from a furniture shop in England. "The single on Cherry Red was meant to be disposable so we thought we'd choose an utterly disposable name," Ben explains. "It's just like an American department store and it just sounded so cheap and vulgar that it would really fit the group."

When they realized that they "weren't going to attain easy heights of fame" working independently, they decided to "get together," Indeed, theirs is not only a musical relationship.

Their lyrics which also tend to be on the dour side are perhaps a bit depressing for American tastes. Tracey, who provides most of the lyrical contributions, explains the origins of EBTG's tales of infidelity and unrest.

"I don't think Americans are very good on introspection," Tracey explains. "If you want to generalize, Americans are very social people. English people have a reputation for being reserved and quiet. There is something about our music that doesn't strike a chord with American culture."

Unless the two have as stormy a relationship as her lyrics imply, where do they come from?

"You draw on things that have happened to you in the past obviously. If you're in a happy relationship, it would be very boring to keep writing about it so maybe you have to go back a little bit..."

"We are the Burton and Taylor of pop after all, we have had our ups and downs. It would be a lot harder if one of us was successful and the other one weren't. The fact that we're developing and progressing both as friends and in a group is very important." Ben adds.

"This is true," Tracey says.

As to where their influences come from, they both contend that it is the song form that they are concerned with irrespective of the genre. In other words, if a song is good, they will listen to it whether its a "jazz standard, a country western tune or even a Madonna single."

"You know, there is always something intrinsic about a good song which will sound good with an orchestra or with an acoustic guitar. I mean, you just can't play a Frankie Goes To Hollywood song on an acoustic guitar," says Ben.

So it follows, the two don't write their songs in the studio with a band. They compose on the piano or with guitar, usually at home.

"We don't write them with a band," he says "thrashing out riffs hour after hour until some small brain cell actually grinds itself into operation and creates the most horrendous rock garbage you've ever heard in your life. We just sit around..."

"...and turn out garbage around the piano-...middle of the road garbage," Tracey jokes.

Ben continues, "the piano or with guitar concentrating simply on the melody, the basic tune and the lyrics."

Ben and Tracey had what they call "the usual piano lessons, that sort of torture that kids are forced into," but neither one had many lessons. Ben recollects "running, screaming out of the room" because his piano teacher's long fingernails would make a horrible noise when they "clicked on the ivories." "I just couldn't bear it," Ben says. His father was a jazz musician, and he grew up with the strains of Bud Powell and Dizzy Gillespie wafting through the house. While this left a permanent stamp on Ben's musical sensibilities, there was an even more powerful, seemingly contradicting influence.

"The fascinating thing is that despite that after fifteen years growing up with jazz, the first thing that really took off for me in terms of expression was punk. Although it's in paradox in it's amateurism to jazz, it did have the same sort of energy and aggressiveness. Charlie Parker was the first punk rocker. Punk just had the spirit which made me want to do it myself and because I was an amateur it was an easier form to start off with."

Ben Watt, a veritable style maven, in a punk band?

"Oh yeah," he laughs. "I could tell you some horrendous names."

"They're really terrible, really embarrassing," cries Tracey.

Worse than the Dead Kennedys?

"That was great. Wasn't it?" Tracey adds.

"Well...I used to be in a band called the afterbirths. Which is pretty repulsive. There you are."

Tracey has a special interest in femme fatales like Francis Farmer ("Ugly Little Dreams" on "Love Not Money") and Marilyn Monroe ("Sugar Finney" on the new LP).

"I suppose it comes from the fact that as a feminist, which I do consider myself to be, I'm interested in any successful or interesting women in any art form." She is very fond of Hollywood film circa the 30s and 40s.

"I do think that's very interesting to look back to and see the issues those films deal with, the personal relationships. They were taken very seriously and were incredibly popular because they spoke to people very closely. They seem relevant to me because that's an area that our lyrics are quite concerned with."

Ben, obviously a feminist himself, adds, "I think the successful writings of a women in any art form usually has a far more interesting story behind it than a man [illegible] because it's fought with far mar barr[illegible] get through. How many successful [illegible] pendently minded female performe[illegible] you think of in pop now? Perhaps C[illegible] Hynde maybe. There's so few and I [illegible] talking about the Madonnas which se[illegible] represent something else. They don't [illegible] to have that sort of opinionated quali[illegible] Tracey or Chrissie Hynde have."

Much to their chagrin, I asked t[illegible] their thoughts on some other journ[illegible] comparisons to Sade, whose only sim[illegible] EBTG is probably that both hail [illegible] Britain.

"To think that my voice sound[illegible] Sade," Tracey says, horrified, "you h[illegible] really have two big sponges between o[illegible] ears. I can see there's more in comm[illegible] tween us and Sade than Van Halen...I [illegible] sound like her. Stylistically, she's very [illegible] ed. Although their last three LPs do hav[illegible] ferent sounds, will each album con[illegible] with such sharp musical and styl[illegible] changes?

"I do think that the longer we're ar[illegible] and the more records we make, the r[illegible] we'll start to consolidate," Tracey [illegible] "There's no way we're suddenly going t[illegible] off and make a heavy rocker..."

"..or a hip-hop record," Ben chuc[illegible] "All of our albums have what people w[illegible] call love songs and political songs. If [illegible] look at our songs as a circle rather th[illegible] linear progression, I think you will see t[illegible] is a unity to what we write about. We [illegible] political love songs. Or lovely poli[illegible] songs."

Microfon's Alberto Caldeiro sends word about the successful release of a new album by regional artist Heraldo Bosio. Bosio's record is selling well in the provinces of Cordoba and Tucuman. Microfon has an office in Cordoba staffed with a producer and a sales and promotion staff. The label also releases the independent records of Martin Gutierrez, who lives in Santa Fe but travels with his artists to Buenos Aires for recording sessions.

ton's outstanding number of wins. Other than mistress of ceremonies Diana Ross, no one graced the stage more frequently than Houston, whose five awards made her the evening's biggest winner. Visibly and audibly embarrassed by her sweep, Houston's acceptance patter all but run out after about the third award.

Houston's recurrent journeys to the podium were made all the more repetitive by the absence of Lionel Richie, on tour in Australia, who would have made four trips to the stage of his own.

A high point of the show was reached with a special tribute segment honoring Elvis Presley, who was recognized with the AMA's first posthumous Award of Merit. The tribute included film clips, reflections by current top recording artists, and a special rendition of "Don't Be Cruel" by country songstresses The Judds, with vocals by Presley's original back-up vocalists, The Jordanaires.

Another high came with a 25-year anniversary salute to Peter, Paul and Mary, who performed a rousing set of some of their best-loved folk tunes, garnering a standing ovation and rousing applause.

Aside from that jubilant interlude, this year's performance segments included appearances by such top artists as Robert Palmer, Run D.M.C., George Strait, Whitney Houston, Tina Turner (dressed in jeans and cowboy boots, with a roots-rocking band behind her) and Janet Jackson, plus a previously taped segment from Moonlighting star Bruce Willis and The Heaters, performing as Bruno and The Heaters (as per Willis' new Motown LP). Diana Ross performed in several segments, reaching a pinnacle with a tribute to jazz great Billy Holiday.

Also performing on the show, albeit from another city, was rock band Genesis, who were beamed in with a live satellite hook-up to their simultaneously occuring concert in Cleveland.

If there was a song of the evening, it was the Dionne Warwick (and friends) tune, "That's What Friends Are For," the largest selling single of 1986. The song, whose proceeds go to the American Foundation For AIDS Research, was not included in the Cash Box year-end polls because it was a donation, and was instead given a special achievement award in this publication's year-end issue. It was performed as a closing segment to the awards show by a collection of music luminaries, including Warwick, who gathered on stage.

Produced by Dick Clark Productions, the evening is always carefully orchestrated to accomodate TV viewers, just as a publicly determined awards presentation might be. But this show had less drag live than then one would normally expect from a 3-hour TV production (which, let's face it, is a long time to keep any audience seated without an intermission. The goods, after all, are geared toward those at home). The show came off smoothly, despite close calls resulting from absent presenters and several instances of botched cue reading.

While the show itself was upbeat in the fashion of Clark's signature quick-paced, rock'n'roll style of TV, its most stimulating overall production feature was Ray Klausen's colorful, geometric set design, which gave the whole evening an arty and playfully high-tech look. Metallic scafolding which unfolded and folded at the beginning and end of Robert Palmer's performance was particularly effective, as was the geometric fabric structure from which Janet Jackson and her dancers emerged.

Kenny Ortega's choreography was as catchy as it was tight, especially on Ross's

A Permanent Shrine for Country Music Grammy Winners

NASHVILLE—They say first impressions are the most lasting. Well, if that's true, then Alabama, Crystal Gayle, the Oak Ridge Boys, Jerry Reed, Conway Twitty and Dottie West have a headstart on their fellow Grammy Award winners by being the first artists to cast their impressions in cement for a new Nashville tribute to country music recording artists called Star Walk.

Alabama

Star Walk will be a permanent display of cement plaques in which former and future Grammy Award winners will have placed their handprints, footprints, (and in Jerry Reed's case, chin print) and comments, in the same vein as Mann's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood. The 3'x 6', 700-pound, brass-framed cement plaques will form a low wall along a lakeside walkway in Fountain Square, a business/shopping/entertainment area scheduled to open this summer in Nashville's Metro Center.

In a music industry reception at the Maxwell House Hotel in Nashville on January 27, BMI VP Roger Sovine, president of the Nashville Chapter of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS—presenters of the Grammy Awards) and Barry Oxford, president of Aladdin Resources, Inc., developer of Fountain Square, jointly announced the initiation of Star Walk with the induction of the first ten Grammy winners. In addition to those mentioned above, Chet Atkins, the Charlie Daniels Band, Ronnie Milsap and Loretta Lynn were also among the first ten inductees, although they were unable to take part in the Jan. 27 ceremony.

At the ceremony, the first six plaques took on individual personality as the stars

MTM GETS A CATALOG OF MEMORIES—The MTM Music Group recently purchased DebDave (BMI), Briarpatch (BMI), Mallven (ASCAP) and Cottonpatch (ASCAP) Music from owners Eddie Rabbitt, Even Stevens and David and Jim Malloy. Besides these four, the catalogs also include material written by SKO's Thom Schuyler. During the transaction, a sentimental Rabbitt said, "I remember every song...where it was written, when I wrote the last lines. There's lifetime in those songs. Take care of my babies." Those "babies" include songs such as "I Love A Rainy Night," "Suspicions" and "Love Will Turn You Around." Pictured at the negotiating table are (front row l-r) Rabbitt, Jim and David Malloy and Stevens with MTM representatives (standing from left) Scott Higgins, v.p. of finance and operations, Director of Publishing Meredith Stewart; Sr. VP Tommy West, CEO Bernard and President Howard Stark.

ALBUM REVIEWS

TAMMY WYNETTE—Anniversary: 20 Years Of Hits—The First Lady Of Country Music—(Epic E2 40625)—(Producer: B.Sherrill)

Well, let's see—what can we add that the title doesn't already say? We could tell you that the cuts on the double album carry Wynette fans from 1972 to 1987—but that's probably in there. And there's no need to talk about her talent and legendary status in the field of country music. So, okay, no surprises. Just a great nostalgic album by the Queen. Enjoy.

OUT OF THE BOX

STEVE EARLE (MCA MCA-53011) Goodbye's All We've Got Left (3:16) (Goldline—ASCAP) (S.Earle) (Producer: E.Gordy, Jr., T.Brown)

Out of the Box goes out on a limb this week with new-ager Earle. The young blood on the CB staff were totally enthralled by his newest effort, pushing it above even such rivals as Ricky and Kris. Standing on the momentum built up by previous releass, Earle might be just tall enough now to reach out and grab the gold ring.

FEATURE PICKS

KRIS KRISTOFFERSON (Mercury 888 345-7) They Killed Him (3:20) (Resaca—BMI) (K.Kristofferson) (Producer: C.Moman)

Nothing silver-tongued about Kris' newest. Power-packed protest with roots buried deeply in the 70's message era. A nudge to make sure we don't forget.

GIRLS NEXT DOOR (MTM B-72084) The Fool In Me (3:50) (Uncle Artie—ASCAP) (M.Ragogna) (Producer: T.West)

Now, folks, traveling backwards from the 70's, you'll see the 40's coming up on your right (just past the junction of the 50s and 60s). What harmonies!

RICKY SKAGGS (Epic 34 06650) I Wonder If I Care As Much (2:50) (Acuff-Rose Opryland—BMI) (D.Everly) (Producer: R.Skaggs)

You may not have realized how much the Everly's background in the hill country of the South colored their songs until you hear this Everly oldie redone by Skaggs—in a style very true to the original.

PAM TILLIS (Warner Bros. 7-28444) I Wish She Wouldn't Treat You That Way (2:59) (Cross Keys [Tree Group]/Perfect Circle—ASCAP) (K.Welch, W.Igleheart) (Producer: M.Morgan)

Returning from our lengthy trip through the past, we wind up solidly back in the country with a song targeted for female radio ears.

THE O'KANES (Columbia 38-06606) Can't Stop My Heart From Loving You (2:47) (Cross Keys [Tree Group]/K.Kane—ASCAP) (J.O'Hara, K.Kane) (Producers: K.Kane, J.O'Hara)

This self-contained song—they wrote it, produced it, and sang it—has the same bluesgrass, harmonic feel of their last, but a little softer. (Yes, that is an accordion.)

DAVID ALLAN COE (Columbia 38-06661) Need A Little Time Off For Bad Behavior (3:01) (Window/Goodlat/RobinSparrow—BMI) (B.Keel, D.A.Coe, L.Latimer) (Producer: B.Sherrill)

Aha! Fooled you. You thought fatherhood had mellowed him out, didn't you. Bocephus influence is prevelant in this DAC co-written Southern rocker.

NASHVILLE CHATTER

CHIT CHAT: Maybe John McKuen has started a trend. Now we hear that Southern Pacific has changed lead vocalists—from Tim Goodman to David Jenkins (I hope Mark Miller isn't reading this). INDIE SPOTLIGHT

RCIA LYNN (Soundwaves SW-784-NSD) You've Got That Leav-ng Look In Your Eye (3:12) omfran—BMI/Kaycey—SESAC) Gropp, S.Milete) (Producer: Jennings)

Marcia's been playing the ole record ino game for awhile now, and it ems like she hits the Spotlight or the icks every time she releases the handle a new single. And here she comes gain. The sound is basic, traditional ving stuff, but it packs enough muscle cally to spin three cherries.

INDIE FEATURE PICKS

EANIE CAMERON (Jack O'Diamonds JOD8608) C'Mon Merle, Make My ay (2:43) (Samos Island—BMI) (K.Johnson, A.Zanetis) (Producer:A.Zanetis)

Probably wouldn't surprise you to find out that this is a tribute to the Hag—or at the tune is familiar and two-steppish. Jeanie's clear, on-target vocals add to ntimental appeal.

C.WEAVER (Wild Turkey WT 7722) Gotta Get Out Of Town (To Stay Out f Trouble) (2:42) (Man In The Boat—ASCAP/Band in the Moat—BMI) (K.Hope, Grochmal, L.Hill) (Producers: J.Brown, J.C.Weaver)

It's cake and presents time! J.C.'s vocals have finally gotten married to a tune at weaved him into the Picks and could rock him up the chart.

EGGY JOHNSON (Cypress CYP 8518) I Thought You Were Already Gone :44) (Big Cypress—BMI) (P.Johnson) (Producer: D.Plummer)

This is girls' week out in the picks, looks like. Different lyrics, different label—me traditional two-step feel, same clear, pleasing vocals.

URLEIGH GRIMES (Prairie Dust PD 8691) Image In My Mind (3:20) (Accred-—BMI) (B.Riley)

The lyrics do create images, and Burleigh's vocal quality has potential. Between-e-lines hints, however, give an indication that he might benefit from a visit to C.'s new marriage broker.

HE EVANS SISTERS (Music City USA MC006) Chime Bells (Leeds Music) .Britt, B.Miller) (Producer: T.Dee)

The snow was coming down outside the CB window when we reviewed this rmonic yodeler, and suddenly there arose smiling images of skiers waltzing down viss mountainsides.

WORTH MENTIONING

HEB WOOLEY (Gallery II Gallery 007) The Day That Leroy Drowned

UNSET TOWN AT DAYBREAK—Not all sunset towns are quite as colorful as the d-painted Myles Maillie one used by The Sweethearts of the Rodeo as background for "Midnight Girls/Sunset Town" video—but, hey, it's home.

placed handprints and messages in the cement. In addition to Reed's chin print (conveniently labeled), other extras included Duane Allen's (Oak Ridge Boys) boot prints, Alabaman Mark Herndon's "mark"—an X made by his drum sticks, and Conway's "Hello Darlin' " (and his permanent advertisement for Twitty City). Dottie's message to her family and fans was a simple "I Love You," while Crystal placed her hand prints in the upper corners of the plaque and wrote, "Love, Crystal Gayle" below them.

Each year an additional five Grammy winners in the country music categories will be added to the low wall. The present plan has space enough for 150 plaques, with room for expansion.

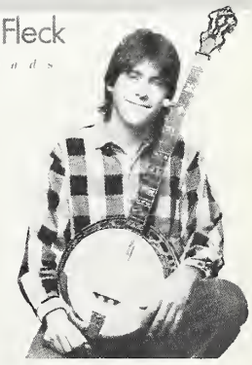
INDIE LP REVIEW

TONY RICE—Me And My Guitar—(Rounder 0201)—(Producers: A.Rice, B.Wolf)

When Rice admits that Gordon Lightfoot is his favorite songwriter, the announcement certainly causes no gasp of surprise. On this album, the singer/guitarist has surrounded himself with tunes by Lightfoot, James Taylor and Bob Dylan and instrumentalists of such ilk as Vassar Clements, Sam Bush and Jerry Douglas. The result is a fine, comfortable folk album designed for Sunday listening.

BELA FLECK—Inroads—(Rounder 0219)—(Producer: B.Fleck)



The compatibility of these two albums has resulted in a departure from the usual pattern of not having two from the same label in the same issue. The musicianship on Rice's LP is paralleled here, although where the former sticks to a folkie feeling, banjo virtuoso Fleck takes off on these self-penned instrumentals, exploring everything from jazz to bluegrass to Irish folk. With Bela's fellow New Grassers—Sam Bush, Pat Flynn and John Cowan—pickin' alongside Jerry Douglas and Mark O'Connor, this album boasts a roster of three Grammy nominees and two Frets Instrumentalists of the Year. Custom-built for open-minded music lovers.

Credit where it's due: "Famine In Their Land," the video that won 3rd place for The Nelons in the NY International Film Festival, was produced by Nashville's Deaton Flanigan Productions (Robert Deaton and George Flanigan). The two shared jointly in the conception, creation, direction and editing of the video, which depicted a Russian scenario communicating the value of religious freedom. Ken Harding (Word, Inc.) was executive producer...Sparrow Records' newest agreements include signing artist Leon Patillo and becoming distributors for StarSong...Reunion Records is busy, too—with a new logo and a unique marketing concept called the "cansette." GOSPEL LP REVIEWS

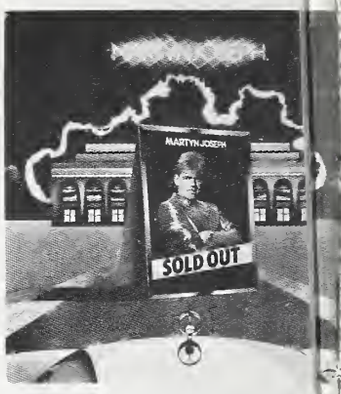
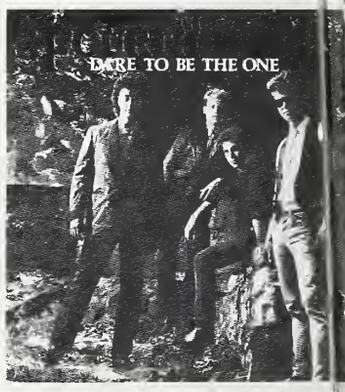
MARTYN JOSEPH—Sold Out—(Power Discs PWRO 1089)—Producers: J. Pantry, C. Norton



Discovered at Estes Park at the Christian Artists Seminar this past summer, Martyn Joseph has brought his advanced music (mostly original) from England—and it's refreshing. From the high energy of the title cut to the fantastic production on "The Power" to the love song "Beautiful Woman," listeners will be "sold out!" Also noteworthy is the cut "Time After Time," a meaningful song about one-on-one communication in today's world.

THE FOURTH WATCH—Dare To Be The One—(Exile SPCN 7-5034-0008-0)—Producer: Jeff Lams



This group got their name from the New Testament's fourth watch—the hours from 3 a.m. to 6 a.m., and their music is as unique as their name. It's all original and done in a soft-rock motif that could receive airplay on both rock and CHR stations. The theme of the album—which is as obvious in every song as it is on the title cut—is: speak up and spread the Word. This is the group's first LP and hopefully there will be more to come.

Awards Show

opening number.

The show may be second only to the Oscars in awards show viewership, but the most extraordinary thing about the AMA's, this, or any other year, goes beyond its ratings. For one thing, it is a show that gets to the meat and potatoes of the music business - namely, the music that sells the most and is most popular on the mass scale. And then there is the simple fact that unlike any other televised music awards program, if there are any qualms about the choice of AMA winners, one has only public taste - or lack of it, if you like - to blame.

COIN MACHINE

A ENIBLE Approach To Business Promotions

by Roger Sharpe

One of the most difficult challenges facing any game room owner is to face his business as a business. More often than not, daily activities are directed at maintaining clean, working equipment. And when new machines have been purchased, the decisions revolve around placement, settings and pricing. All of these events, and many others, are enough to keep even the most dedicated owners and store managers on the go around the clock.

Unfortunately, to compete for market share in the Eighties, the coin-machine industry must expand its scope and recognize the power of promotion and the impact of merchandising. After all, any endeavors must be targeted at increasing traffic—pure and simple. Once you can get that individual in the game room, he/she is bound to spend some amount of money. Making the experience a rewarding and entertaining one, can substantially improve that earning potential: day-in and day-out. And that is the secret that so many other businesses, in other fields have learned.

How many times have you been enticed into a store because of a special sale? Maybe there is a local restaurant or club that offers discounted meals/drinks during certain hours. You're willing to not only change your schedule to get to these places, but, often, you're willing to go out of your way to get there.

Admittedly, the goods and services that one can find in the average game room don't have the same clout as the reduced price color TV or an "early bird special", but through creative means, you can reap the benefits and bottom line profits that will accrue once you get some regular programs into operation.

First and foremost in determining what you might do, is to decide what you're trying to accomplish. Your goal might be to increase revenues overall and expand your customer base so that it includes more adults, or more children, or any combination that makes sense for your type of business. There might be some times—summer, winter, etc. or a Sunday morning, Tuesday evening, etc.—when you can't scare up business even if your games were on free play. But this is only a minor obstacle that can easily be surmounted if you give them a reason—above and beyond the games themselves—for coming into your location.

The important fact to recognize is that your commitment can be limited so that it fits your immediate and long term needs. You don't have to feel that once you embark on the road of promotional bliss that you're locked into it forever. You're not. All you want to do is try out different activities and see what works best for you. Obviously, what might be successful in one location might not work in another for a variety of reasons, not the least of which is your audience and where your business is situated.

However, there are some basics that can be applied across the board which can get you started. Since every game room suffers from those slow times during the week, borrow from the world of bars and taverns and institute your own 'happy hours.' This can mean everything from a special token rate exchange (although the problem in stopping people from stockpiling tokens for future 'reduced rate' play in unavoidable) to an approach that makes much more sense. Keep your prices the same, but offer a special prize during those slow hours. This might be for the highest score on a particular machine, or group of machines where the winner might receive a special package of tokens, or even some merchandise, such as a bicycle or a television set.

This latter option, opens up the door to do some cross-promotion with another local merchant who is as hungry as you are to gain visibility in the community. Go down the street to the ice cream store or fast food spot and see if they're willing to do some couponing via your game room. Both of you benefit and, it doesn't cost you anything more than a few signs in your game room announcing the promotion.

A different alternative to this type of program is to take advantage of the local press (penny savers and community papers) and advertise your business to the surrounding populace, but to go one step further and incorporate a sweepstakes. The problem with so many tournaments and other play-oriented activities is that you get your same hard-core audience (those top players) competing against each other. There's no new business that you're generating. A sweepstakes takes away pure game playing skill and opens up this type of promotion to the masses. Once again, you can tie in with a local merchant for the top prize and have people enter by filling out any forms in your game room. You can even set up a contest in much the same way—borrowing, possibly, from the trivia boom, and offer a series of questions that must be answered correctly in order to qualify for the top prize.

These few promotion suggestions have something in common—very little expense to you and very little concern over regulating them during normal business hours. As a start, promotional activities can be very effective for traffic building and increasing the awareness of your business in the community. There's obviously, much more that can still be done, but this is just a starting point to get you going and thinking about what you might want to do. Personal creativity is the key in designing your own program.

Try one soon and see what the results are. If you're successful with the first, the other ideas will quickly follow—as will business revenues and a better understanding of making your business all that it can be.

T.C. AND FRIEND—Tom Campbell, Memetron's vice president of sales, and a native 'Bluegrass' boy, made a visit back home during the holiday season and, naturally, gravitated to Churchill Downs in Louisville, Kentucky where, as a young student, he worked as an usher. Another stop was Claiborne Farms, to spend time with the great Secretariat who, as you can see, welcomed the visit! This photo was taken on New Year's Day and Tom said it was quite a thrill to see "the greatest race horse ever to answer the call."

Williams' 'Witelco 6000'

Williams Telephone Co., Inc. has introduced its latest entry in the private pay phone market, the "Witelco 6000" which accepts both coins and major credit cards. The new model is self-contained and does not require an expensive and location-limiting remote call processor as do other credit card phones.

The 6000 has all of the quality, de ability and sophisticated features of t telco 5000 coin phone, the predecess which has enjoyed considerable succ the industry. It goes even further, ho For example, rate information is pr grammable, fast communication is possible by a high-speed modem, the built-in audit totalizer, accounting an diagnostics as well as remote downlo and information transfer, tamper-proc and much more.

"The 6000 is ideal for both local a and for long distance callers who don't a pocketful of change," observed Huddleson, national sales and mark manager of Witelco. "And it's ideal fo phone owners, too. The credit card r instantly validates the card. And the card surcharge can be adjusted," he co ued. "You can have it reflect full p company rates for more profit per c can lower it to build phone usage."

Williams Telephone Company is a s iary of Williams Electronics, Inc.

THE RECORD'S GOT A BULLET

SO WHAT!

Lots of records have bullets, but the simple fact of a bullet tells you very little about the records' value to your marketplace, your target audience, your ratings!

So then, how do you fully evaluate a record's potential impact on your marketplace? A record that is streaking up the charts might not be right for you, but other records, moving more methodically might be just the record you are looking for to put you one step ahead of the competition.

The most comprehensive analysis of current hits is available only in

Radio Report

Available every week and only in

CASH BOX

Radio Report is everything you always wanted to know about a record, for every format. It includes in-depth analysis of demographics, male/female and age groups, call out and call in research, sales rankings, video information, tour information, related album information, in-depth test and break out information (by region), the industry's first multi-format chart, an analysis of multi-format records, information on indie records, rotations and a whole lot more.

Whatever your format, whatever your goals, you need a publication that gives the complete view of records that you are considering. The only publication that can give you all the information on programming your station is Radio Report

Available each week, only with Cash Box.
